

Talking Points for individual comments:

1. You can write about the right of international students, scholars and international press to remain in the USA for as long as their work requires
2. You can write about how this is another xenophobic, strategic attack on the international populations that is symptomatic of the current government's divisive tactics
3. You can write about the value you see in/the university/your department finds in the work, presence and perspectives of international colleagues and collaborations
4. You can write about any personal connections you have with international folks: your colleagues, friends, students, partners, professors, neighbors and so on, and how another attack/these constant attacks on them is unacceptable
5. You can share anecdotes or testimonies
6. You can share your stance against the continual oppression and violation of an already marginalized, vulnerable group.
